

STRONG UNDERTONE TO DOMESTIC WHEAT

Market Irregular, but There Is Fairly Spirited Buying—Primary Receipts Light and Stocks Decreasing.

New York, March 21.—There was a strong undertone to domestic wheat markets early in the week, with fairly spirited buying. This was prompted in part by encouraging cables from European markets following an upward course, which was for a time slightly perplexing, in view of the so-called bearish foreign statistics. For one thing, the wheat exports were larger than anticipated, and particularly in March, as a consequence there was a heavy increase in the quantity on passage, 4,182,000 bushels. This was, however, counterbalanced by less favorable reports from India and fear that the coal strike would result in lighter supplies, and especially of flour in the United Kingdom.

The Coal Strike. It was thought that scarcity of coal would compel many millers in Great Britain to shut down. There were many sagacious members of the trade who contended that Great Britain would be in a bad predicament as far as foodstuffs were concerned in case the coal strike should be continued for any protracted period. It is known that available supplies are light virtually everywhere in Western Europe, and therefore it was believed that European importers would be compelled to give more attention to our wheat and flour. To make matters worse, political affairs in Europe are unsettled. Demand was quickened also in part by light receipts at primary points, and especially in winter wheat territory, while shipments into consumptive channels continue moderately large, which has doubtless resulted in further appreciable reduction in the visible supply. Subsequently there was much unsettlement at a slight recession, which was ascribed to holders for the rise taking in profits, emptied by a sharp break in Liverpool, and particularly in March contracts, which was attributed to reports that the coal strike had been practically settled.

Late Unsettled. Late in the week the market was feverish and unsettled, with many variations, although in the main the trend was slightly upward, as most advices from Europe were rather encouraging, especially from Antwerp, which was decidedly stronger. Paris also was notably strong. As a result of these fac-

TRADING IN COTTON AFFECTED BY NEWS

Marked Chiefly by Pressure of Liquidation by Important Bull Interests—Revised Figures of Last Year's Crop.

Washington, March 21.—Trading in cotton the past week was mostly sensational and marked chiefly by the pressure of liquidation by important bull interests on every little bulge. There was enough bullish news from the cotton belt on the bad weather here, and the prospect of a heavy ordinary movement and a sharp advance in prices. Such trading, however, was held in check by the disappointing delay in settling the great British coal strike, and also by the extraordinary bearish report of the Census Bureau on last season's crop, making the total figures 50,000,000 bales, or less than the foreign trade expected, and at least 200,000 in excess of the anticipations of the average consensus of opinion in trade circles here. As a consequence of these startling influences, fluctuations were very erratic, but confined within an extreme range of 15 to 20 points.

The market closed quite strong last Saturday on the basis of 19.47 for May, against 19.50 for July, and 19.62 for October, the active trading months. The market was 19.43 and 19.44 and 19.45, respectively, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and 19.46 and 19.47 on Friday. The market backed and filled within a range of 10 to 15 points from those prices on Wednesday and Thursday, and finally closed last night at a net decline of 16 points for all of this crop options, and 8 for the next crop deliveries, with March ending at 19.30, May 19.37, July 19.43, October 19.51, and December 19.59. New Orleans and Liverpool markets showed the same narrow trading conditions and uncertainty, but in this market, Southern spot markets have been dull, with more cotton offering than lately, but with still no weakness apparent. Scarcity of even running grades of the better quality of cotton is still a marked feature, reported at all points. The market was with a good demand from spinners' agents and exporters still prevailing, but under the current basis, notwithstanding the labor trouble throughout Great Britain and uncertain politics dulling the Continental markets, and the bearish census report on last season's tremendous crop.

Absorption of the Record Crop. The Census Bureau's report makes the total yield of the past season's crop over 50,000,000 bales larger than the previous bumper crop of nearly 48,000,000 bales produced from this season of 1909. The net largest of 33,899,000 in 1908. It makes the total yield in running commercial bales including lint, 46,000,000 against 43,900,000 the previous season, and 43,800,000 in 1909. The total amount of lint in the crop is estimated at 14,700,000 bales, or 32.5 per cent of the crop of 1910, and 31.7 per cent of 1909. The average gross weight of the bales the past season is figured out as 541.8 pounds each, against 541.2 in 1910, and 540.2 two years ago. It is 19,050,519 bales of the average gross weight of 541.8 pounds each is reduced to the gross weight of 500 pounds each the total crop on that basis would figure out 12,625,097 bales, against the government's estimate of 13,000,000 bales. The Agricultural Bureau report of December 11 of 13,855,000 bales of the gross weight of 500 pounds each.

This tremendous crop had been discounted to such an extent in the decline in price from 12 cents to 8 1/2 cents by the middle of December, and by the many private trade estimates

Owner and Proprietor.

PRICES OF STOCKS AT HIGHEST LEVEL

New York, March 21.—Prices of the stocks during the past week touched the highest level during the present year, and were not far under the best prices of the recovery of the latter part of last year. The extent of the advance thus covered from the low point of the February depression offered attractive profit to professional operations and selling pressure, both on the long and short side, contributed to occasional fluctuations. The market was generally strong, however, that the market was still controlled by forces making for the rise. The professional bear element was quick to retreat.

Actual happenings in the field of business and industry moderately confirmed the hopes of improvement on which the rise was based. Conditions in the mental trades were an important influence in strengthening these hopes. The reported determination of the steel manufacturers to secure better prices for their products, which they had been offering to play a lesser role, would tend to remedy, it was thought, the unsatisfactory yield of profits on present prices. Lower quotations for the coming season and the recent concessions in freight rates on Lake Superior coals were expected to help in this direction. It was an-

COTTON MARKET A WEATHER AFFAIR

New Orleans, March 21.—The cotton market this week probably will continue to be a weather affair. According to the outlook at the end of last week, strikes might play a less important part, unless labor troubles on this side of the water grows worse. Interest will be manifested in the report on supply and distribution of cotton up to the end of February to be issued by the Census Bureau.

As a rule these reports on supply and distribution are not very important, but it may be that some item concerning mill takings of supplies will be strong enough to put the market one way or the other.

The general feeling is that the present long period of unsettled weather must be followed by a spell of fair weather. Many will eagerly await the Washington weather forecast, especially so because the last few weeks

INDICTMENTS FOR ILLEGAL SELLING

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lancaster, Va., March 21.—The March term of the Circuit Court for Lancaster, which began last Monday, Judge Wright presiding, ended yesterday.

The grand jury found fifteen indictments against the late Dr. H. A. Brooks, of the Baltimore Sun, who married a Miss Brown, of Peekskill, in Westmoreland county, by whom he had one child, died a widower some years ago, and in his will left all his property to the trained nurse who attended him in his last illness. His son, Frederick Brooks, brought suit to have the will set aside and endeavored to have the case tried in Virginia, but the trained nurse claimed Baltimore as her home, and she died before the case came to trial. All her heirs live in England, and it is now announced that a compromise has been reached by which Frederick Brooks will get "Averdale," the large estate in Westmoreland that formerly belonged to his father, said one of the finest farms in the Northern Neck of Virginia.

The good weather during the last week has enabled farmers and fishermen to begin work in earnest. Much fallowing has been done on the highlands, and well ponds have been driven down and some fish nets have been set. But as yet only a few fish have been caught. The oyster season, that closed on the 15th instant is said to have been the best in many years. The oysters were plentiful and very fat, and fair prices prevailed throughout the season.

The menhaden fishing season will open next month, when more men and steamers will be engaged in this important industry than ever before. All the steamers heretofore in use are being overhauled, and quite a number of new ones are in course of construction. Since the close of the last fishing season several new companies have been organized in this section and are having large factories erected.

The remains of Mrs. Ball, widow of Captain James Kendall Ball, of Lancaster, who died recently in Norfolk, were brought home last week and interred in historic old White Chapel Churchyard, where she and her husband had been devout worshippers all their lives, and where their ancestors had worshipped for many generations.

Mrs. Ball was nearly eighty years old. Her husband, who died several years ago, was one of the bravest and most distinguished officers in the Confederate army. The funeral was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. L. R. Combs, pastor of the Episcopal church in this parish.

The Baptist churches in the northern part of Lancaster, of which the Rev. W. L. Dunaway, D. D., was formerly pastor, and which have been vacant since Dr. Dunaway's resignation at the close of last year, have united in extending a call to the Rev. E. M. Ramsey, of Halifax county, but as yet Mr. Ramsey has not indicated whether he will accept the call or not. The two members of the House of Delegates from the four counties of the Northern Neck—R. O. Norris, Jr., of Lancaster, and Thomas Brown, of Westmoreland—who came home sick from Richmond, are still confined to their homes, the former with malarial fever, the latter with consumption. Mr. Norris, who had begun to improve, first day of the session, but on returning home he had to take to his bed again. The condition of Mr. Brown is reported to be very serious, and his family and friends are apprehensive of a fatal result. Mr. Brown's health

SANITARY TROOPS TO BE INSPECTED

North Carolina Surgeon-General Makes Official Announcement.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Asheville, N. C., March 24.—It is announced at the office of the surgeon-general of North Carolina, which is situated in this city, that, beginning the first day of next month, Colonel S. Westray Battle and Major William Lyster, of the medical corps of the United States Army, will inspect all of the sanitary troops of the North Carolina National Guard. The companies will be reviewed and their property will be thoroughly inspected by the two officers, who will spend several days accomplishing this work. The local companies, under the command of Major Francis S. Clomenger, will be inspected first, after which Colonel Battle and Major Lyster will visit the companies at Raleigh, Kinston, Reidsville and other North Carolina cities.

North Carolina's sanitary troops are said to be in excellent condition at this time, and they stand in the very front rank in equipment and organization. Few States have field hospital and ambulance companies organized, drilled and ready to drop into their places in the regular enlistment should their services be needed.

The annual convention of District No. 3 of the Independent Order of Red Men will be held here on Monday and Tuesday of next week. The Battery Park Hotel has been chosen as the headquarters of the convention, and the gathering promises to be a very enjoyable and instructive one. The convention will be opened with a welcome meeting which will be held at the temple on Spruce Street, at which time a number of addresses will be delivered. The convention which will be held here will be largely attended by delegates from the District of Columbia, Virginia, the two Carolinas and Georgia.

W. A. Scott and F. M. Jordan, of the Department of Insurance of this State, spent several days here last week inspecting the buildings within the fire district for accumulated rubbish, defective wiring, poor dues and collected wastes, and as a result of their inspection a large number of the property owners of this city have made a number of changes in the arrangement of office buildings and boarding houses and hotels. In a large number of cases, fire escapes were ordered installed, and the work of placing them will be begun within a few days.

The insurance men stated that they found the city in good shape, so far as the danger of fire is concerned, and expressed the opinion that this city deserves an excellent insurance rate. Within the past few weeks practically all of the towns and cities in the State have been inspected, and in some instances names of property owners have been presented to grand juries for violation of the State fire and building laws.

State Horticulturist W. N. Hunt, of Raleigh, spent a few days at Waynesville last week, where the fruit growers of the western portion of this State were organized for carrying out their plan in the most successful manner. While at that place Professor Hunt delivered an excellent address on "Orchards."

Members of the Baraca and Melathia classes of this city are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the convention which will be held at Salisbury, N. C., April 12-15. A large attendance is expected, and some of the prominent Baraca and Melathia workers will speak on various subjects before the gathering of North Carolina members of the two classes.

REPAIRS ORDERED MADE.

Buckingham Bridges Damaged by Storms of Recent Date.
Buckingham, Va., March 24.—The Board of Supervisors met last night in session here last week and ordered repairs made to bridges that were damaged by the floods of the previous week. The board will meet again the first Monday in April to take up the question of issuing bonds to borrow money for building permanent bridges. The mails were delivered at regular intervals during the past week, the mail from Brems to Dillwyn having been carried for several days by wagon.

Wheat, oat and grass crops have taken on new life since the warm rains came. Plant beds were damaged to some extent by the hard washing rains, but new ones are being prepared in ample time.
